QN: What core values do you uphold in your leadership role?

🗣️: Firstly, I try my best to find a way to turn my weakness into a strength. The best way to do this is by learning from my peers and getting feedback from them. I learn through my experiences and conversations as to how i mitigate my weakness.

QN: One piece of advice to aspiring student leaders who are hesitant to take on leadership roles?

🗣️: Staying open to feedback is key for growth, view feedback as an opportunity to learn and improve your approach.

GEP UK Trip 2024

Earlier this April, a group of 14 LEAD Excel students embarked on a 17-day Global Engagement Programme (GEP) trip to the UK. Their itinerary included visits to London, University of Bristol, and University of Liverpool. Let's delve into their reflections and key learnings from this enriching experience!

"My experience in Liverpool was such an eye-opening and extra-ordinary experience. The atmosphere was electric and it was such a surreal experience. I couldn't help but be swept up in the fervor of Liverpool FC's storied legacy.

Besides that, we delved into the city's past, exploring the maritime museums that recognises Liverpool's pivotal role in the transatlantic slave trade and its subsequent abolition. These sobering reminders of the city's complex history served as poignant reminders of the resilience and resolve of humans, who have faced adversity with unwavering strength and solidarity."

"My overall experience in Bristol was truly unforgettable, and the visit to Stratford-upon-Avon left the most profound impression on me. We began with a lecture on William Shakespeare, followed by exploring his birthplace. The evening was magical at the Royal Shakespeare Theatre watching "Love's Labour's Lost". I learned about Shakespeare's impact on literature and culture, igniting a newfound love for the arts. This experience will forever shape my appreciation for history and literature."

"The UK GEP trip was an enriching academic and cultural experience. I got to connect with a global culture and experience many new things, from learning about politics in the grand House of Commons, art experiences in museums and one of West End's famous theatres, to the many artefacts and sights in the various Museums.

It was a fulfilling experience which was further enriched by my peers, who made it such that we could learn many things from each other, with something for everybody."
