NYC Leaders Course (8-10 June)

88 LEAD students participated in the 3D2N NYC Leaders Course as part of the Singapore Young Leaders Programme (SYLP). Participants managed to experience OBS' Outdoor Adventure Education Programme, had the opportunity to embark on various learning journeys, and even attended talks given by industry experts to deepen their understanding and awareness of the realities and perspectives in Singapore.

“Entering the camp disappointed to be among strangers, I surprisingly left with a heart full of love and gratitude.

This camp has reminded me of how important it is to keep an open mind and to seize given opportunities. Through this camp, I've discovered more about myself and my watchmates. In particular, the importance of having planning and effective communication.

Though seemingly trivial, activities like tunnelling in darkness highlighted the importance of said skills. I'm grateful for the experience and the connections made with like-minded, passionate individuals.”

QN: What valuable lessons have you learnt from organising Events? How have these lessons influenced your understanding of what it means to be a Leader?

🗣️: From organising events, I learned how sharp and detailed one must be to account for everything that is going to occur. For example, small things like pens and paper that are taken for granted in the planning process still have to be accounted for when it's time for the event. These things have definitely changed the way I see a leader, as now I have come to respect the experience and intuition that are necessary in the leader role.

QN: One piece of advice to aspiring Student Leaders who are hesitant to take on leadership roles?

🗣️: Despite our country's collectivist culture, I find that the journey of stepping up and leading others is greatly rewarding. As such, I would advise any aspiring student leaders to not worry too much about how they will perform in a leadership role and focus more on taking up opportunities to improve their leadership abilities.
